The Bulgarians who recently took Kastoria have been forced to make a precipitate retirement.

Germans have interned 25,000 Greek soldiers captured at Kavala, the seaport seized, and still King Constantine hesitates.

Jacob S. Coxey, of Massillon, Ohio, who more than twenty years ago led "Coxey's army" of unemployed on a long march to Washington, today filed papers with the secretary of state as an independent candidate for United States Senator.

President Wilson has decided to take advantage of the earliest possible opportunity to challenge the statement made by Charles E. Hughes in recent speeches that the basis on which the recently threatened railroad strike was averted was merely an increase of wages for the employees.

Friday's war news was all in favor of the allies. The British took six miles of the German trenches a depth of two miles and the French made an advance of 500 meters and captured 200 prisoners. Thirteen aeroplanes were destroyed, with a loss of four to the allies on the western front. Italians in a new drive took more trenches and 2100 prisoners. Serbians drove the Bulgarians back 12 miles.

Dissatisfied with the food, it is said 75 non-commissioned officers and men of the fourth regiment national guard of New Jersey recently returned from the border, having deserted their command at Seagirt. The local police and neighboring cities were asked to arrest them. Two privates and a corporal arrested, told the police they had no intention of deserting but had traveled to their homes in Jersey City to get a "regular" meal.

Jerome K. Jerome, English humorist, age 57, has been accepted as a driver of a motor ambulance by the Red Cross and soon will be assigned to service in Flanders. Being barred from the army on account of his age, Jerome fretted from the beginning of the war because he could not help. He has kept himself in good physical condition and is an adept at the motor wheel. That qualification won his acceptance.

John M. Parker, progressive vice-presidential candidate, in a telegram from Pass Christian, Miss., to the New York World sets forth many reasons why he will speak against Mr. Hughes in the campaign which he proposes to conduct in Ohio, New York and other states. He says in his humble judgment the greatest calamity to this nation would be to turn it over to the republican machine, which is still under the absolute control of the same bosses against whom even life long republicans arose in vigorous and overwhelming revolt.

TIGER WINS MOST VOTES IN BIG BEAUTY CONTEST

JERRY, Giant Animal with Ringling Bros, Captured 1st Prize.

When the Ringling Brothers' circus was playing at the Coliseum in Chicago this spring, a vote was taken to decide which was the most particular animal in the menagerie. Many school children took part in the contest. Some favored the giant elephant, Big Bingo; others voted for Jill, the smallest member of the giraffe family, and nearly all the thousand wild animals, with the exception of the hyenas, received a scattering vote. But when the polls were closed and the last ballot counted, it was found that Jerry, the monster tiger of this jungleland had won, paws down.

For though Jerry is as masculine as his name implies, he spends no less than three hours each day looking after his toilet. And when he has finished, his great, beautiful coat is glossier than that of any of his neighbors, the seals, and almost as attractive to the eyes as the tropical birds that occupy the aviaries opposite the big fellow's cage. He performs his painstaking toilet entirely with his big, broad tongue. The smooth, or under side is used as a wet brush. The rough, or upper surface serves as a comb. The tongue is also indispensable for the minor toilet of the face and for which human beings, according to sex, use moustache-combs, razors, powder-puffs, rabbits' feet, brushes and cosmetics. The distance to which the tiger's tongue can be protruded for the purpose of washing every part of his broad face is quite surprising. In spite of a gradual inclination on the part of men to go clean shaven, the tiger family has always remained true to whiskers. The animal's tongue can be extended to the furthestmost of these strong, bristly hairs and he is very careful to keep scrupulously clean.

When the circus visits Hopkinsville, Saturday, Sept. 30, patrons will be given a full hour in which to review the 108 dens which comprise the Ringling zoo, before the trumpets announce the opening scene of the fairyland spectacle, "Cinderella." And at the close of the two-hour program of arenic acts, visitors will find the animals at table. It will then be discovered that Jerry and his family have turned their comb-like tongues into knives and forks and are using the rough side to lick morsels of meat from bones.

The Ten-Cent Loaf.

The standardization of the ten-cent loaf of bread was recommended by the Executive Committee of the National Association of Master Bakers, which has just closed an interesting session in Chicago. News dispatches say that the master bakers were agreed that a standard ten-cent loaf of bread is the solution of the problem which has been raised through the advance in the price of flour, lard, sugar, milk, salt and wrapping paper. A suggestion to lower the quality of bread, be it said to the credit of the bakers, was hissed down.

It may be necessary to materially advance the price of bread, but we do not believe that a flat 100 per cent. raise is equitable or justified by conditions. From "time immemorial" as the saying goes, a loaf of bread has sold for five cents. This price was as staple as the price of a glass of beer. That flour has advanced sharply is a well-known fact, but there have been advances in the past which reached nearly the same altitude. Yet there was no talk of a ten-cent loaf of bread. The bakers didn't go into bankruptcy. The poor man didn't find it necessary to pay two nickels for a loaf of bread the style of which he had purchased all his life for one nickel.

If a change is imperative, why not reduce the size of the five-cent loaf to proportions commensurate with the cost of production. The ten-cent loaf is an anomaly. It is un-American and unconscionable.—Times.
